TRANSATLANTIC BREAKFAST DEBATE: ASSESSING EUROPEAN PUBLIC OPINIONS BEFORE THE EUROPEAN ELECTIONS

WEDNESDAY 14 MAY 09.00 > 10.30

Notre Europe – Jacques Delors Institute, 19 rue de Milan, 75009, Paris

The Paris Office of the German Marshall Fund of the United States, in association with Notre Europe – Jacques Delors Institute, is pleased to invite you to a Transatlantic Breakfast Debate with Mr. Bruce Stokes, Director of Global Economic Attitudes at the Pew Research Center in Washington, DC and non-resident transatlantic fellow for economics at the German Marshall Fund of the U.S.

The discussion will focus on the release of the Pew Research Center's latest survey of seven European Union public opinions (France, Germany, the UK, Spain, Poland, Italy and Greece), assessing the mood of the electorate in the run up to the European Parliament elections in May 2014. The survey will highlight the opinion of the publics on economic issues and the economic future of the EU, their attitudes toward the European project, the trust in their national governments, as well as the public perception of democracy in their own country and in the EU, their views toward immigration and a range of issues that will animate people's voting in the election.

The presentation and discussions will be held in English.

09.00 > 10.30 Bruce STOKES, Director of Global Economic Attitudes at the Pew Research Center in Washington, D.C. and non-resident transatlantic fellow for economics at the German Marshall Fund of the U.S.

Moderator: Yves BERTONCINI, Director of Notre Europe – Jacques Delors Institute

Please RSVP before May 12th
