

Leonardo Cacciolato

Research and Communications Assistant

Leonardo Cacciolato joined the team in September 2022 as a research and communication intern. As far as the research is concerned, Leonardo assists the work of Pierre Leturq and Colette van der Ven on the issues related to the greening of the trade policy of the European Union.

After a Bachelor's degree at the University of Genoa in International Relations and Diplomacy and an Erasmus in Cork, Leonardo completed a MA in European and International Sciences at the University of Trento. He recently graduated from the College of Europe with a Master's in EU International Relations and Diplomacy.

Leonardo has previously worked at the Commercial Office of the Italian Embassy in Dublin. He speaks Italian, English and French.
