

Lucas Guttenberg

Senior Research Fellow and Deputy Head of Research at Jacques Delors Institut – Berlin

Lucas Guttenberg is a Senior Research Fellow and Deputy Head of Research at Jacques Delors Institut – Berlin. He leads the team working on EMU, the Single market, social Europe and digitalisation. His own research focuses mainly on institutional developments in EMU, a matter he had also covered as economist in the European Central Bank's EU Institutions and Fora Division. Prior to joining JDI, he worked as an advisor to the ECB's Permanent Representative in Washington, DC. Lucas holds a BA from SciencesPo Paris and an MPP from Harvard Kennedy School, where he was a McCloy Fellow.

Bibliographie

Eulalia Rubio , Lucas Guttenberg , "The future of the Eurozone: cross-perspective from France and Germany", Brief, Paris, Institut Jacques Delors, 25/07/2018

Henrik Enderlein , Lucas Guttenberg , "Why Meseberg matters – A short explainer", Brief, Paris, Institut Jacques Delors, 22/06/2018

Nicole Koenig , Lucas Guttenberg , Lucas Rasche , "Merkel on EU reform: a decryption", Brief, Paris, Institut Jacques Delors, 07/06/2018

Lucas Guttenberg , Johannes Hemker , "No Escape from Politics: four tests for a successful fiscal instrument in the Euro area", Policy paper, Paris, Institut Jacques Delors, 26/03/2018

Lucas Guttenberg , "Looking for the silver bullet – A guide to the ESM debate", Policy paper, Paris, Institut Jacques Delors, 05/12/2017

Henrik Enderlein , Jann Spiess , Lucas Guttenberg , "Blueprint for a Cyclical Shock Insurance in the euro area", Report, Paris, Institut Jacques Delors, 27/09/2013

Henrik Enderlein , Lucas Guttenberg , Jann Spiess , "Making one size fit all. Designing a cyclical adjustment insurance fund for the eurozone", Policy Paper, Paris, Institut Jacques Delors, 23/01/2013