

Imola Streho

Member of the Board of Directors of the Jacques Delors Institute

Imola Streho earned her PhD in Law at the Université Paris II, Panthéon-Assas and is a graduate of the College of Europe. She is an associate researcher at the Law School and Deputy Director of Phd School of Sciences Po.

Her works focus on trade in services in the EU and in particular the evolution of the European legal framework in the freedom of service provision. Her last publication : Néo D., Sauvé P., Streho I., Services Trade and ASEAN Integration, CUP, 2019.

Before joining Sciences Po, from 2002 to 2008, she was part of the EU Court of Justice in Luxembourg. Before that, she was Emile Noël Fellow at Harvard Law School and at NYU School of Law where she was executive director of the Jean Monnet Centre.

Imola Streho has taught EU law at the Institute of International Studies of University Paris 2, Panthéon-Assas, at the College of Europe, at the Central European University of Budapest, at the Instituto Empresa Law School in Madrid, the Catolica University Law School in Lisbonne, the National University of Singapore and the University of Melbourne Law School. At the Institut des Hautes Etudes Internationales of Université Paris 2, Panthéon-Assas, she directed seminars on European Law from 1999 to 2010. At Sciences Po, she teaches her research subjects in the Bachelor program as well as in the Master in European Affairs at the Law School.

From 2017 to 2019, she has founded and directed the Académie Notre Europe of the Jacques Delors Institute.